CANELÉ TABLE LAMP

DESIGN BY LECLERCQ VIALLET

Designed by French design duo Leclercq Viallet, Canelé is an elegant table lamp defined by the interplay of folded steel and pleated textile. A three-legged steel frame supports the shade, setting a graphic structure against the softness of the fabric. The shade's layered pleats create an organic silhouette, forming a subtle striped effect and adding depth to the light. Emitting a warm glow, Canelé brings a playful presence while adapting easily to a wide range of interior settings. Available in several colour options, it works equally well on tables, shelves, or floors.

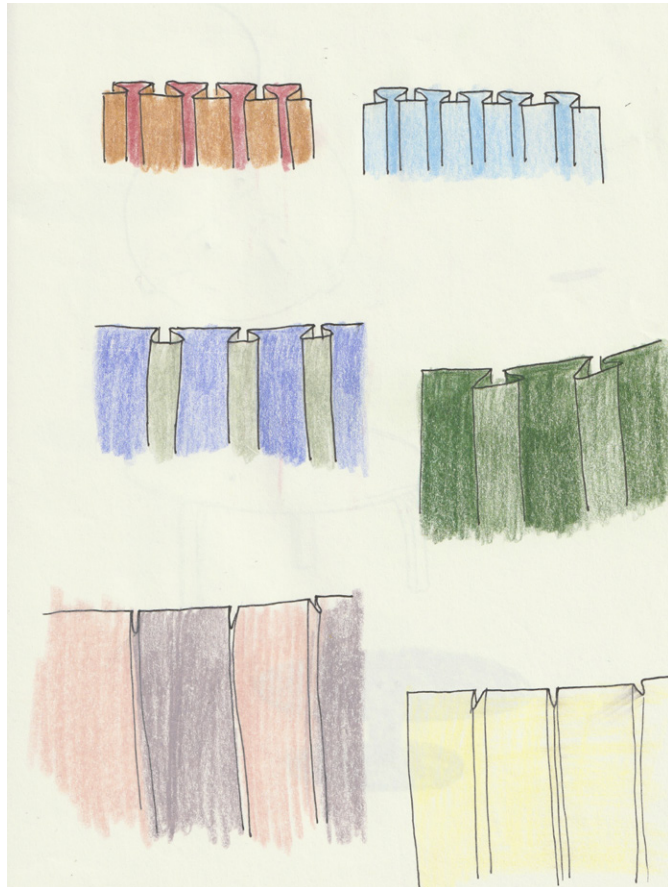

Camille Viallet and Théo Leclercq are French designers based in Paris. After graduating from ESAD de Reims, they established their studio, Leclercq Viallet, in 2016. Driven by curiosity for new creative contexts, their practice spans objects, furniture, textiles, and public spaces, reflecting a multidisciplinary approach rooted in craftsmanship and contemporary design. Their work has been exhibited internationally and recognised with several awards. For HAY, they have designed the Canelé Table Lamp.
