

Ceramic Ceiling Rose

Ceramic Ceiling Rose is a simple cover for ceiling electrical connection points, offering a clean and durable alternative to standard plastic fittings. Made from unglazed white porcelain, it has a matt, fine-textured surface that brings a calm and minimal finish to any lighting installation.

Each piece is cast and fired individually, resulting in subtle variations that reflect the character of the material. Ceramic Ceiling Rose is available in two forms, both designed to sit neatly against the ceiling and provide a refined, long-lasting solution around the cable entry.
